Post Traderships.

Wilson informed him he had given the facts and letter to General Custer and had heard also that Custer was the author of the Herald's Bismarck dispatch of March 13th. He did not know any Herald correspondent but never cashed any draft drawn by Gordon Bennett to order of Custer.

Ralph Meeker, correspondent of the Herald, testified that Custer had cashed his drafts on the Herald as an accommodation, but Custer never received any portion of the proceeds.

Senator Stevenson testified, in regard to the Kentucky railroad, that it was a partnership concern composed of the members of the board of control, all of whom were officers. Each member had one vote, regardless of the amount of his interest. Death did not create a vacancy in the board; the number was reduced. The Bowles estate was not represented in the board. Pendleton could not have represented the Bowles interest there because Mr Bald[win] had exclusive control of that estate.

Ralph Meeker was recalled and testified that Custer wrote some letters to the Herald after he left Bismarck. [illegible] Custer's connection with the matter was purely unofficial and friendly.

Wm Hargen of Minneapolis testified that he was post trader at Fort Rice, Dakota, and appointed on the recommendation of Mr Peck of Durfee & Peck. He was removed in July 1874 by an order from the Secretary of War. He was interested at Standing Rock and sold out to Orvil Grant. The note signed "Bonnafon" to the order of Orvil Grant and endorsed by Grant for $1,68[illegible] is still unpaid.

Real Estate Pool Affairs.

Among the telegrams sent to the committee on the real estate pool and Jay Cooke indebtedness in relation to Secretary Robeson a loan to Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., were two dispatches bearing on different subjects. Both these telegrams were sent by Sargent, and as they have been referred to the House committee on naval affairs for investigation the Senator will probably be called on to explain. The first telegram is as follows:

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 5, 1875.

Geo. M. Robeson, Secretary of the Navy, Washington:
Please telegraph $8,000 to the chief of construction for this month, to stop suspension. Very necessary.
(Signed) A. A. SARGENT.

Sargent had no official authority to telegraph for this amount of money. The California State election occurred on Aug 5, 1875, and a desire to prevent suspension of work at Mare Island navy yard until after the election, may have had something to do with the request. The other telegram is as follows:

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19, 1875.

To Geo. M. Robeson, Washington: Brown is trying to buy out the other granite contractors to gouge the government. Is he in business under the terms of the advertisement? Griffith is the lowest honest bidder. (Signed) A. A. SARGENT.

The work for which bids were made was to construct the granite wall for the protection of the navy yard at Mare Island. Griffith was the contractor with whom the senator was interested. The Brown referred to is S. P. Brown of Washington, a well known naval contractor whom the house committee on naval affairs have recently been investigating. Sargent positively charges Brown with intent to gouge the government, and the committee will ascertain whether any gouging was done by the contractors in building the wall.

The Sargent-Robeson Telegrams Explained.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The two telegrams from Sargent to Secretary Robeson, which have come into the possession of the committee investigating the Secretary's business transactions with Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., are explained as follows: The first, dated San Francisco, June 16, 1875, requesting Robeson to telegraph $8,000 to the chief of construction for this month to stop suspension, was sent in [order to] procure a remittance to keep the men at work at Mare Island navy yard, the allowance for that month being then on the point of exhaustion. The other dispatch reads as follows:

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19, 18[75].

Brown is trying to buy out the other granite contractors to gouge the government. Is he in business under the terms of the advertisement? Griffith is the lowest honest bid.

This the Senator said related to bids for granite for the dry dock at Mare Island. S. P. Brown of Washington, having no quarry and not in business, had put in a bid a little lower than that of Griffith, a Californian engaged in the quarrying business. Sargent telegraphed to the War Department against what he considered the fraudulent bid of Brown, who however was awarded the contract but failed to execute it, and the work was thereby greatly embarrassed and the government sustained pecuniary loss.

It was Booth's Bill.

The bill reached on the Senate calendar and passed over at the request of McDonald, who said some parties interested wanted a further hearing, before the committee was Booth's bill to allow settlers on the Southern Pacific railroad land grant between Goshen and Hollister to purchase at $2.50 per acre.

Grace Greenwood's Husband a Defaulter.

NEW YORK, April 13.—A Washington special to the Post says the chief clerk of the general office, [illegible] Lippincott, Grace Greenwood's husband, who was summarily dismissed by Secretary Chandler some weeks ago for attending [illegible] is missing [illegible] and efforts to ascertain his whereabouts failed. He was indicted by the grand jury, but before he could be arrested he had and is supposed to have taken refuge in some foreign country. A further investigation of his rascalities shows that he was [illegible] for passing 1,000 fraudulent claims [illegible] through the general office.

House.

Walling [illegible] committee on public lands [illegible] numbered sections of land within the [illegible] of the North Pacific Railroad [illegible] payment [illegible] at the minimum rate [of] $1.25 an acre [illegible] passed.

[illegible] from the same committee [illegible] granting lands to Dakota [illegible] Wyoming for university purposes [illegible] committee of the whole.

Hal[illegible] from the same committee reported a bill to provide for the sale [illegible] lands in California [illegible] committee.

Crounse, from the same committee, reported a bill for the restoration to market of the Quentah Indian reservation in Utah; passed. Also a bill respecting the limits of the reservations for townships on the public domain; passed.

[illegible] bill to confirm pre-emption and homestead entries of public lands passed. The House then went into committee on the bill to transfer the Indian Bureau to the War Department, and several speeches were made, but the committee without action took a recess until evening.

The evening session was devoted to debate on the legislative appropriation bill.

Garfield moved to strike out the paragraph in reference to mints which allows the use of money received for refining bullion to be used for defraying the expenses thereof. He argued that while this provision would seem to lessen the amount of the appropriation it actually increased the expenditures of the government. He much preferred the present system which required all such moneys to be paid into the treasury and then an appropriation to be made direct. After a good deal of discussion in which the California members took an active part Garfield's amendment was rejected.

[illegible] moved to increase the item for workmen at the San Francisco mint from $2[illegible],000 to $[illegible]. The amendment was advocated by himself, Page, Luttrell and [illegible] and opposed by Randall and Holman. [illegible] asserted that the members of the appropriation committee knew little of the importance of the question to the people of the Pacific slope. The mint at San Francisco performed for the people of the Pacific slope the same service that the mint at [illegible] performed for the people of the Eastern States. After considerable debate the amendment was rejected by a tie vote, the chairman Cox voting in the negative.

Luttrell moved to make the appropriation $[illegible],000, and argued that the effect of the small appropriation would be to have the bullion sent to Europe instead of having it coined at home.

Holman opposed the amendment and called attention to the fact that although the number of pieces coined in Philadelphia was nearly three times as great as the number at San Francisco the appropriations in this bill for the latter mint exceeded those for Philadelphia. The amendment was rejected.

After progressing as far as page 57 in the bill the committee rose and the House adjourned to Monday, to-morrow being a holiday.

Action of Republican County Committee.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—The Republican county committee met last evening, when an animated discussion occurred on the question of calling the primary election. A substitute was offered that a committee of 25 be appointed, consisting of Republicans and Independents, to select 75 delegates to the State convention, which was lost, and a motion to call a primary election April 20th prevailed.

Coin going to China.

The British steamer Lotus which sailed yesterday for China, carried away over $600,000 in treasure, principally silver, which accounts in part for the recent rise in value.

The Anti-Chinese Question.

At a meeting of the anti Chinese committee of the board of supervisors, held Tuesday evening, it was decided to send three instead of five commissioners to Washington. Advices from various portions of the State indicate a lively interest in the anti Chinese movement.

Meeting of the Leopard Stockholders.

About two hundred of the dissatisfied Leopard stockholders were at the meeting last night representing 11,850 shares. H. Roberts was chosen president, J. McIntosh, secretary, A. L. Day, L. Summerville, J. McIntosh, J. W. Cox and J. P. Marshall were appointed a committee to examine the books and affairs and report at the meeting next Wednesday, the secretary of the meeting read a statement from an examination of accounts made by himself showing the bullion produce from October 15 to March 25, was $365,925, of which $37,000 had been paid as dividend. The expenses were about $[illegible]0,000 a month, leaving a big margin unaccounted for. Much complaint was made of false representations made by Christy, president, and Plummer, superintendent of the mine as to the condition of the mine.

Babcock again—No Villainy, but he is in it.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1[3].—A private letter from Samoa says documents have been found among Steinberger's papers showing that Babcock for a consideration obtained Steinberger's appointment as special agent; also, that an arrangement existed between Steinberger and J. G. Goddefroy & Son, Hamburg, by which the former was to play it to the hands of the latter, who were to have the monopoly of Samoan trade, to be bankers of the government and to issue paper currency. Steinberger was to have ten per cent on all transactions between the firm and the government. This firm owned the Peerless seized by the Barracouta. The Senate and Assembly support Steinberger but the king and the people are against him.

Chinese Nuisance Investigation.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—The sub committee of the Senate investigation committee is to-day engaged with Rev. Otis Gibson in making a personal inspection of the Chinese quarters and receiving the testimony bearing upon the charges that others than the Chinese receive a percentage of the profits from the gambling houses. The full committee will assemble again at 11 A. M. to-morrow.

Semi-Monthly Collection—Silver.

The semi-monthly mercantile collections are being made and large quantities of silver coin are changing hands in payment of bills. The brokers are a little shy about bidding very high for half dollars. Some are declining to buy under 5 per cent, though considerable quantities have been bought during the day at 4@4½ per cent. The selling price among brokers is generally 3 per cent, for trade dollars 91½ is bid and 93 asked.

Legal Tenders 88¼ buying, 89¼ selling.

Meeting of Fruit and Produce Commission Merchants.

The commission merchants and jobbers in green fruit and produce held a meeting yesterday afternoon to consider the silver question and after considerable discussion passed a resolution to accept silver in payment of all kinds of farm, garden and orchard products. The prices of the various kinds of produce will be gauged, however, to correspond with the discount on silver.

Chiricahua Indians on the War Path.

CAMP GRANT, April 13.—Advices from Camp Bowie this morning confirm the reports of yesterday that all the Chiricahua Indians, except Chief Kahche, had left the reservation.

TUCSON, April 1[3].—Yesterday Gov. Safford telegraphed Gen. Kautz asking permission to lead [illegible]0 San Carlos Apaches against the Chiricahuas. The general replied that Major Brayton would go immediately to San Carlos and enlist all the scouts necessary and he [illegible] would arrive in 10 days and take the field in person. Gov. Safford has written a letter to Gen. Marshal of Sonora requesting him to send all his available troops to Arizona to prevent Chiricahuas from taking refuge in Sonora. It is the intention to severely punish this band so they will be willing to stay where they belong. There is no apprehension of the San Carlos Indians breaking out and as they number four to one of Chiricahuas and can be used against them it is expected to make short work of the Chiricahuas.

CAMP LOWELL, April 13.—A scouting party of 44 mounted men under Capt. Whitside left here this morning with [illegible] to protect the settlers in Santa Cruz valley and Chiricahua mountains.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The people of Victoria experienced some of the severest weather of the season.

The Colonist says vegetation is a month later in the province this year than usual.

A part of the upper works of the steamship Pacific has come ashore at Piney S[pit]. The ship Ophelia has sunk out of sight and no part of her will ever be recovered.

The case of C. H. Hale and others against D. B. [illegible] is the one principally attracting attention at the present term of the Olympia court. It is the old New Wo[rld] matter brought up again.

On the 9th ult. Pierre Dennis, a native of France, committed suicide at Mission valley, Okanagon, by blowing out his brains with a shotgun. An inquest held on the body resulted in a verdict of self destruction.

The winning ticket owned in Victoria and drawn in the Seattle grand lottery has proved just as good as gold. Messrs. Wells, Fargo & Co. received $5,000 for the big prize won by Mr Lewis, and $600 for two other prizes won there.

Hon. Mr Vernon has been created a gold commissioner. Wm Meason, of Dog creek, has been made a justice of the peace for Canoe creek polling division of Lillooet district. David Pratt, of Bridge creek, has been made a justice for Clinton polling division of same.

A gentleman, writing from Seabeck, states that Mr Adams, of the firm of Adams & Taylor, arrived there a week ago with a crew of ship carpenters, and that immediate preparations will be made for the construction at that port of a vessel capable of carrying 1,000,000 feet of lumber.

From the mouth to the source of the Weber river in Utah, cattle are suffering greatly. Hay, which was selling for $8 per ton last fall, is now worth $26 and cannot be purchased even for that price. The snow is two and three feet deep on the level and great numbers of cattle are dying every day from the effects of starvation and the inclement weather.

An expedition has started from Victoria to Gardiner's Canal in search of the steamer Sir James Douglas and the C. P. R. S. party under Mr Gamsby. The party sailed from Victoria for Gardiner's Canal nearly ten weeks ago, for the purpose of making certain reconnoisances in the interior and Mr. Gamsby had instructions to return in six weeks, although the party was provisioned for eight or nine weeks. Nothing has been heard from them or of them since touching at Bella Bella on the way up, but the worst that is feared is that the severity of the weather has retarded operations inland, or that the vessel may have been icebound in the canal. There seems to be no reason for apprehending any more serious conquences than simple detention from some cause or other, and we are glad to learn that a considerable reserve supply of provisions was placed on board the Douglas to meet any possible emergency, so that that there can be no ground for uneasiness on that score.

THE TERRITORIES.

On the 6th day of May next, a meeting of the board of directors of the Western Washington Industrial Association will be held in Olympia to consider the advisability of striking the word "Western" from its title.

John O'Neil, a book agent, while on his tour about Dry creek, Walla Walla valley and in the act of dismounting caught his left foot in the stirrup. The impatient animal at that moment turned and let fly with both hoofs breaking the unfortunate man's leg below the knee.

The Walla Walla Spirit says: "We learn that the malicious driving off of stock, out of sight and range, is excessively practiced by knavish settlers at the lower end of the valley. If the time was usefully employed in repairing dilapidated fences, which is spent in the above mentioned outrage upon an industrious community such acts would be uncalled for."

Advices from Fort Colville to the 20th of March seem to indicate that winter has got a strong seat in the lap of spring. Snow was still plenty, feed all gone and cattle were getting rather thin. In one flock of sheep 40 lambs had gone to rest on a snowy mantle. The song of the robin was remembered but not heard in the land. Colville is 300 miles north of Walla Walla.

INDIA RUBBER.

India rubber is now an important article of commerce, 10,000,000 pounds being annually imported into the United States alone, and has become in its manufactured state, in some shape or other, an almost indispensable necessity in the construction and use of machinery in various ways. In the form of packing it makes tight the joints of the steam engine, as belting, it drives the sawmill and the cotton gin, in the shape of springs it supports the easy riding railway car and through hose made of it the fireman throws the stream of water on the burning building. Its mechanical uses are almost innumerable and to all classes who make or use machinery it is a valuable auxiliary in a thousand different ways. It is therefore not singular that the engineer and mechanic should feel curious to know something of the production and manufacture of so wonderful a substance, to gratify this curiosity so far as the limited space permits is the present purpose.

India rubber is imported into the country from South America, Central America and the East Indies, each of these countries supplying caoutchouc or rubber of a different character and quality. The larger portion, and also the finest quality comes from the valley of the Amazon in Brazil, where the trees producing it extend over a vast region of country. Through the river Amazon and its tributaries it is brought to Para, from which port it is exported to this and other countries. The trees which produce the rubber are of large size, and are tapped in much the same way as the sugar maple is in this country.

The valley of the Amazon yields annually about 12,000,000 pounds of rubber, nearly or quite one half of which is exported to the United States and the remainder to Europe. When received in this country by the manufacturer, the crude rubber is cut by machinery into very small pieces and thoroughly cleaned and dried, by which process there is a loss of from one sixth to one third in weight. When properly dried—which usually takes several months—the rubber is ready for manufacturing. India rubber in its crude state becomes soft when subjected to heat and very hard and rigid when exposed to severe cold, but by the vulcanizing process invented by the late Mr. Charles Goodyear—which consists of incorporating with the rubber a small proportion of sulphur and subjecting it to from 250 to 300 degrees of heat for several hours—it is rendered uniformly elastic when exposed to the most intense cold or to any reasonable degree of heat.

The Daily [illegible] says: The firm of Pittock, Marshall & Co. of Oregon City some days ago sold ten thousand barrels of their Oregon City mills flour to a Liverpool firm, since which time they have been running night and day to fill it. They have chartered the Rue Fane, now en route from San Francisco to carry the flour to England. This shipment aggregates twenty two thousand barrels sold during the present harvest season on English account by the above named firm and they expect to put one more cargo afloat before its close.

Little Charley, son of Albert Matson, of Marshfield, Coos county, a child about five years old, was drowned on Wednesday of last week. He had been seen playing in the shipyard with another little boy about three years old at about 10½ A. Search was immediately made, and his body was found floating on the water; every effort was made to resuscitate him but in vain.

A gentleman writing from Lane county to the Cultivator says: "We are now plowing and getting ready to put in our spring crops, and we are further along with our work than we were this time last year. If the weather should prove favorable from this on, the acreage sown in Oregon this year will be greater than ever before. It is said by the 'wise ones' that times the coming year will be very hard. If this be so, to prevent their pinching us to hurt each farmer should put in a few extra acres of wheat. This will do more to remedy hard times when they have come than any amount of grumbling. If the old adage 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure' holds good in anything, it is in this."

WINSLOW'S CASE.

[Special to the New York Times.]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The delay about the surrender of Winslow the Boston forger grows out of a recent law of Parliament which provides generally that "a fugitive shall not be surrendered to a foreign State unless provision is made by the law of that State, or by arrangement that the fugitive criminal shall not, until he has been restored, or had an opportunity of returning to Her Majesty's dominions, be detained or tried in that foreign State for any offense committed prior to his surrender, other than the extradition crime proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded." The act was passed in 1870. The original treaty provisions included the crimes of murder and forgery as offenses for which criminals should be extradited. This provision of 1873 was extended in 1842 by the treaty between Daniel Webster and Lord Ashburton so as to include the crime of murder or assault with intent to murder or piracy or arson or robbery or forgery or the utterance of forged paper. The treaty provides specifically what testimony shall be required to make the case against a fugitive criminal arrested for extradition. The British law which has been quoted seems to be directly opposed to the terms of the treaty, but it is quoted by the British government, which demands first that the Congress of the United States shall enact a law that Winslow shall only be tried on the specific charges of forgery on which his extradition is demanded, or second if no law can be enacted that the United States shall give its guarantee for that purpose. Of course neither the Congress nor the federal government can exercise any jurisdiction over the trial of a citizen of Massachusetts within that State and under her laws. The government has refused to accede to these demands, taking the position that the practice has always been different among nations having treaties of extradition. Numerous citations of references are made and the provisions of the treaty of 1842 are pleaded against the demand. Our government meanwhile reiterates its demand for the unconditional extradition of Winslow. Either government has a right to terminate the treaty provisions for extradition. It is not known what course the British government will adopt and the answer to the repeated demand for extradition without condition is awaited with much interest.

EXTRAVAGANCE OF AMERICAN WOMEN.—The reputation of American women is so well identified with extravagance in dress that the dressmakers in Paris will say if any fault is found with prices: "We have American ladies only, [illegible] any costly fabric is exhibited it is for Americans." A short time after the marriage of the Duchess of Edinburgh I was at Worth's with a lady friend who was selecting some dresses. Mr Worth, who rarely makes a [illegible] dress of [illegible] under 1,000 francs (I speak from experience), was [illegible] trimmed with [illegible] lace a dress for which she was to pay $250 in gold. She said she could not think of wearing [illegible] Wait a moment, said Worth, and he came forward with one of his women, whom he showed an exquisite morning dress just completed for the Duchess. It was a pale shade of pink gros grain trimmed [illegible] with [illegible] of Valenciennes; the price was 1,800 francs. The humble republican was not moved by the example of the Grand Duchess Marie, and would not take a lesson in imperial economy. — Marie Cypriennes in [illegible]

HAWTHORNE.

Mr George P. Lathrop in Scribner for April gives a comparative estimate of the genius of [illegible] Irving and Hawthorne. A sketch of Hawthorne's life is included with some hitherto unpublished details. After speaking of the suffering which the young romancer endured in his lonely youth in Salem, Mr. Lathrop says:

"There are two things which are offensive to the average mind, that success which outshines everybody, and that other successful development which withdraws you from the prying eye of neighbors and lets you make of yourself something possibly better than they. And it was this latter kind which made Hawthorne troublesome to the practical community around him. Nothing in his books betrays the prolonged exasperation which he felt at the relations between himself and his townsfolk, but there are glimpses of it in some of his letters which make one marvel at his self restraint in not letting more of it appear in print. At last, when a little gentle satire escaped him in 'The Custom House,' it awoke hot scandal in the little city. As to the Salem people, he wrote to a friend in 1850: 'I really thought I had been exceedingly good natured in my treatment of them.' And so it appeared to most of his readers. But the general public would have been as startled as would the Salem citizens if they could have known how deep was his disgust at the lack of sympathy there had always been between himself and his fellow townsmen. Yet, patiently absorbing his bitter experience, he wrote late in life: 'I am disposed to thank God for the gloom and chill of my early life in the hope that my share of adversity came then when I bore it alone.' This want of sympathy had a practical side, also, as when various Salem people combined to get Hawthorne ousted from the surveyorship, and made representations for that end which he thought untrue. But in practical affairs, his experiences were often rasping. Most of his earlier tales were written for little or no compensation. In 1836 he went to Boston to edit a magazine and seems to have been cheated out of the most of his salary. It was at about this time that he was engaged by Mr S. G. Goodrich to write either the whole or a large part of the famous 'Universal History' of Peter Parley, which brought him a hundred dollars and sold by millions of copies for the benefit of his employer. Later, when married and living at the Old Manse, he advanced money to the Democratic Review, and delayed collecting the price of sundry contributions until the concern failed and carried off both the loan and the value of his articles, irrecoverably. It is usually thought that the Liverpool consulate made a delightful and vastly lucrative episode in his life. A shameful misinterpretation of his acceptance of it, however, was inflicted on him, the emoluments of the office were shortly cut down by Congress, large drains were made on his private purse by unfortunate fellow countrymen, and his diligence in office was sometimes questioned,—with the greatest injustice, however, for he was a most conscientious public servant, and went beyond the necessities of his position, to make sure. At no time, unless in Italy, was he wholly free from the embarrassments of a small income. In addition to these more sordid annoyances, there were many grievances that cannot be touched upon here. In short, he lived the checkered life of most men who had their own way to make in the world and had to suffer misconstruction which more politic men might have avoided, and less sensitive men would not have felt. But, with perfect supremacy, he saw that these things were not worthy to affect him in any visible way. He was rational, self possessed, and simply manful. Not the less, to a person of his disposition and genius, such things made a constant warfare.

It was a silent battle; all the more admirable the victory, then. He did not crudely call upon the world to be miserable because he suffered or was taken advantage of. But this silent battle speaks most powerfully throughout his works: this drama of interior development has issued in the visible action of creatures who take their places among the most dramatically conceived in fictitious writing."

A WINNING WIDOW.—She is a blonde whose ringlets have been kissed into gold by the suns of some thirty summers. To a form like Hebe's she adds all the winsome ways of a Juno when cajoling the nodding Thunderer on Mount Ida. She went to Milwaukee a fortnight since and stopped at the Plankinton House. She was a Washington widow, and was therefore lonesome. She wailed out her longings for congenial companionship in a Milwaukee paper and sympathetic souls responded, knocked at her door, and were admitted. She gently bemoaned her solitary lot and suggested cards as a pleasant recreation. "Euchre?" No, she was positively tired of that stupid game. Did the visitor ever play poker? Of course he did, under the circumstances, whether he could tell a "flush" from a flouring mill. The delighted widow produced chips and the game began. Visitor was at first pleased to see her deftly "rake in the pot," and flattered himself that each individual club abstracted from his "stack" was Cupid's messenger to the heart of his fair antagonist. As stack followed stack across the festive board, each transportation was marked by such a captivating smile or witty retort that he congratulated himself on having held the weaker "hands." He would bide his time, catch a "full" when she was "bluffing," and "play for even." He intended to come out $10 or $20 behind and would play her about to the size of his "roll" before he attempted to recover. He got his full at last, and cunningly induced her to "call" him for his last dollar. She showed down a "gazander"—four deuces and an ace—and gathered the wealth. This last act had a soporific effect, and visitor was gracefully dismissed to the consumptive breezes of midnight, with a cordial invitation to call again. If he didn't bite, another did and the widow's solitude was nightly enlivened with a sucker. At the expiration of ten days she complacently counted over her winnings—about $1,500, $1,000 of which came from one individual—carefully packed her marked cards and chips, paid her hotel bill and came to Chicago, where she is now stopping at a leading hotel, and already has several ardent victims on the string, one of whom dropped $50 with her yesterday. There are more.—Chicago Times.

Real Estate Pool Affairs.

Among the telegrams sent to the committee on the real estate pool and Jay Cooke indebtedness, in relation to Secretary Robeson's loan to Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., were two dispatches bearing on different subjects. Both these telegrams were sent by Sargent, and as they have been referred to the House committee on naval affairs for investigation the Senator will probably be called on to explain. The first telegram is as follows

SAN FRANCISCO Aug. 5 1873

Geo M Robeson, Secretary of the Navy, Washington. Please telegraph $8,000 to the chief of construction, for this month, to stop suspension. Very necessary.
(Signed) A A SARGENT

Sargent had no official authority to telegraph for this amount of money. The California State election occurred on Aug. 5 1873 and a desire to prevent suspension of work at Mare Island navy yard until after the election may have had something to do with the request. The other telegram is as follows

SAN FRANCISCO June 19 1875

To Geo M Robeson, Washington. Brown is trying to buy out the other granite contractors to gouge the government. Is he in business under the terms of the advertisement? Griffith is the lowest honest bidder. (Signed) A A SARGENT

The work for which bids were made was to construct the granite wall for the protection of the navy yard at Mare Island. Griffith the contractor with whom the senator was interested. The Brown referred to is S J Brown of Washington, a well known naval contractor whom the house committee on naval affairs have recently been investigating. Sargent positively charges Brown with intent to gouge the government and the committee will ascertain whether any gouging was done by the contractors in building the wall

Washington, April 13.—The two telegrams from Sargent to Secretary Robeson which have come into the possession of the committee investigating the Secretary's business transactions with Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co, are explained as follows. The first, dated San Francisco [illegible] 1873 requesting Robeson to telegraph $8,000 to the chief constructor for this month to stop suspension, was sent to procure a remittance to keep the men at work at Mare Island navy yard, the allowance for that month being then on the point of exhaustion. The other dispatch reads as follows

SAN FRANCISCO June 19 1875

Brown is trying to buy out the other granite contractors to gouge the government. Is he in business under the terms of the advertisement? Griffith is the lowest honest bid.

This the Senator said related to bids for granite for the dry dock at Mare Island. S J Brown of Washington, having no quarry and not in business, had put in a bid a little lower than that of Griffith, a Californian engaged in the quarrying business. Sargent telegraphed to the War Department against what he considered the fraudulent bid of Brown, who however was awarded the contract but failed to execute it, and the work was thereby greatly embarrassed and the government sustained pecuniary loss.

It was Booth's Bill

House

Kidder from the same committee reported a bill granting lands to Dakota, Utah and Wyoming for university purposes. Referred to the committee of the whole.

Halpern from the same committee reported a bill to provide for the sale of desert lands in California. On motion of Page it was recommitted.

Crannah from the same committee reported a bill for the restoration to market of the Quentah Indian reservation in Utah; passed. Also a bill respecting the limits of the reservations for townships on the public domain; passed.

The bill to confirm pre-emption and homestead entries of public lands passed. The House then went into committee on the bill to transfer the Indian Bureau to the War Department, and several speeches were made, but the committee without action took a recess until evening.

The evening session was devoted to debate on the legislative appropriation bill.

Garfield moved to strike out the paragraph in reference to mints which allows the use of money received for refining bullion to be used for defraying the expenses thereof. He argued that while this provision would seem to lessen the amount of the appropriation it actually increased the expenditures of the government. He much preferred the present system which required all such moneys to be paid into the treasury and then an appropriation to be made direct. After a good deal of discussion in which the California members took an active part Garfield's amendment was rejected.

Piper moved to increase the item for workmen at the San Francisco mint from $2[illegible],000 to $[illegible],000. The amendment was advocated by himself, Page, Luttrell and [illegible], and opposed by Randall and Holman. Piper asserted that the members of the appropriation committee knew little of the importance of the question to the people of the Pacific slope. The mint at San Francisco performed for the people of the Pacific slope the same service that the rag money mills performed for the people of the Eastern States. After considerable debate the amendment was rejected by a tie vote, the chairman, Cox, voting in the negative.

Luttrell moved to make the appropriation $2[illegible],000 and argued that the effect of the small appropriation would be to have the bullion sent to Europe instead of having it coined at home.

Holman opposed the amendment and called attention to the fact that although the number of pieces coined in Philadelphia was nearly three times as great as the number at San Francisco the appropriations in this bill for the latter mint exceeded those for Philadelphia. The amendment was rejected.

After progressing as far as page 37 in the bill the committee rose and the House adjourned to Monday, to-morrow being a holiday.

A gentleman, writing from Seabeck, states that Mr Adams of the firm of Adams & Taylor arrived there a week ago with a crew of ship carpenters, and that immediate preparations will be made for the construction at that port of a vessel capable of carrying 1,000,000 feet of lumber

From the mouth to the source of the Weber river in Utah, cattle are suffering greatly. Hay, which was selling for $6 per ton last fall, is now worth $26, and cannot be purchased even for that price. The snow is two and three feet deep on the level, and great numbers of cattle are dying every day from the effects of starvation and the inclement weather

An expedition has started from Victoria to Gardiner's Canal in search of the steamer Sir James Douglas and the C P R S party under Mr Gamsby. The party sailed from Victoria for Gardiner's Canal nearly ten weeks ago for the purpose of making certain reconnoissances in the interior, and Mr. Gamsby had instructions to return in six weeks, although the party was provisioned for eight or nine weeks. Nothing has been heard from them or of them since touching at Bella Bella on the way up, but the worst that is feared is that the severity of the weather has retarded operations inland, or that the vessel may have been ice bound in the canal. There seems to be no reason for apprehending any more serious conquences than simple detention from some cause or other, and we are glad to learn that a considerable reserve supply of provisions was placed on board the Douglas to meet any possible emergency, so that that there can be no ground for uneasiness on that score.

THE TERRITORIES.

On the 6th day of May next, a meeting of the board of directors of the Western Washington Industrial Association will be held in Olympia to consider the advisability of striking the word 'Western' from its title

John O Neil, a book agent, while on his tour about Dry creek, Walla Walla valley, and in the act of dismounting, caught his left foot in the stirrup. The impatient animal at that moment turned and let fly with both hoofs, breaking the unfortunate man's leg below the knee

The Walla Walla Spirit says 'We learn that the malicious driving off of stock, out of sight and range, is excessively practiced by knavish settlers at the lower end of the valley. If the time was usefully employed in repairing dilapidated fences, which is spent in the above mentioned outrage upon an industrious community, such acts would be uncalled for.'

Advices from Fort Colville to the 26th of March seem to indicate that winter has got a strong seat in the lap of spring. Snow was still plenty, feed all gone and cattle were getting rather thin. In one flock of sheep 46 lambs had gone to rest on a snowy mantle. The song of the robin was remembered, but not heard in the land. Colville is 260 miles north of Walla Walla

India rubber is now an important article of commerce, 10,000,000 pounds being annually imported into the United States alone, and has become in its manufactured state, in some shape or other, an almost indispensable necessity in the construction and use of machinery in various ways. In the form of packing it makes tight the joints of the steam engine; as belting, it drives the sawmill and the cotton gin; in the shape of springs it supports the easy riding railway car; and through hose made of it the fireman throws the stream of water on the burning building. Its mechanical uses are almost innumerable, and to all classes who make or use machinery it is a valuable auxiliary in a thousand different ways. It is therefore not singular that the engineer and mechanic should feel curious to know something of the production and manufacture of so wonderful a substance. To gratify this curiosity, so far as the limited space permits, is the present purpose.

India rubber is imported into the country from South America, Central America and the East Indies, each of these countries supplying caoutchouc or rubber, of a different character and quality. The larger portion and also the finest quality comes from the valley of the Amazon, in Brazil, where the trees producing it extend over a vast region of country. Through the river Amazon and its tributaries it is brought to Para, from which port it is exported to this and other countries. The trees which produce the rubber are of large size and are tapped in much the same way as the sugar maple is in this country.

The valley of the Amazon yields annually about 12,000,000 pounds of rubber, nearly or quite one half of which is exported to the United States and the remainder to Europe. When received in this country by the manufacturer the crude rubber is cut by machinery into very small pieces and thoroughly cleaned and dried, by which process there is a loss of from one sixth to one third in weight. When properly dried—which usually takes several months—the rubber is ready for manufacturing. India rubber in its crude state becomes soft when subjected to heat, and very hard and rigid when exposed to severe cold, but by the vulcanizing process invented by the late Mr Charles Goodyear—which consists of incorporating with the rubber a small proportion of sulphur and subjecting it to from 250 to 300 degrees of heat for several hours—it is rendered uniformly elastic when exposed to the most intense cold or to any reasonable degree of heat

The Enterprise says: The firm of [illegible] Marshall & Co of Oregon City some [illegible] days ago sold ten thousand barrels of their mills flour to a Liverpool firm, and since which time they have been and are running night and day to fill it. They have chartered the Race Horse, now en route from San Francisco, to carry the flour to England. This shipment aggregates twenty two thousand barrels sold during the present harvest season on English account by the above named firm, and they expect to put our more cargo afloat before its close.

WINSLOW'S CASE

[Special to the New York Times.]

Washington, March 2[illegible].—The delay about the surrender of Winslow, the Boston forger, grows out of a recent law of Parliament which provides generally that "a fugitive shall not be surrendered to a foreign State unless provision is made by the law of that State, or by arrangement, that the fugitive criminal shall not, until he has been restored, or had an opportunity of returning to Her Majesty's dominions, be detained or tried in that foreign State for any offense committed prior to his surrender other than the extradition crime proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded." The act was passed in 1870. The original treaty provisions included the crimes of murder and forgery as offenses for which criminals should be extradited. This provision of [illegible] was extended in 1842, by the treaty between Daniel Webster and Lord Ashburton, so as to include "the crime of murder, or assault with intent to murder, or piracy, or arson, or robbery, or forgery, or the utterance of forged paper." The treaty provides specifically what testimony shall be required to make the case against a fugitive criminal arrested for extradition. The British law which has been quoted seems to be directly opposed to the terms of the treaty, but it is quoted by the British government, which demands first that the Congress of the United States shall enact a law that Winslow shall only be tried on the specific charges of forgery on which his extradition is demanded, or, second, if no law can be enacted, that the United States shall give its guarantee for that purpose. Of course neither the Congress nor the federal government can exercise any jurisdiction over the trial of a citizen of Massachusetts within that State and under her laws. The government has refused to accede to these demands, taking the position that the practice has always been different among nations having treaties of extradition. Numerous citations of references are made, and the provisions of the treaty of 1842 are pleaded against the demand. Our government meanwhile reiterates its demand for the unconditional extradition of Winslow. Either government has a right to terminate the treaty provisions for extradition. It is not known what course the British government will adopt, and the answer to the repeated demand for extradition without condition is awaited with much interest

We have American ladies only [illegible] costly fabric is exhibited it is for Americans. A short time after the marriage of the Duchess of Edinburgh I was in Worth's with a lady friend who was selecting some dresses. Mr Worth, who rarely makes a silk dress of any kind under 1,000 francs—I speak from experience—was showing her a train with [illegible] a dress for which she was to pay $250 in gold. She said she would not think of wearing [illegible] "Wait a moment," said Worth, and he came forward with one of his women waiters showing an exquisite morning dress just completed for the Duchess. It was a pale shade of pink gros grain trimmed [illegible] with imitation of Valenciennes; the price was 1,800 francs. The humble republican was not moved by the example of the "Grand Duchesse Marie," and would not take a lesson in imperial economy.—Marie Courcelles in Indianapolis Sentinel

Mr George P Lathrop, in Scribner for April, gives a comparative estimate of the genius of Irving and Hawthorne. A sketch of Hawthorne's life is included, with some hitherto unpublished details. After speaking of the suffering which the young romancer endured in his lonely youth in Salem, Mr Lathrop says:

There are two things which are offensive to the average mind: that success which outshines everybody, and that other successful development which withdraws you from the prying eye of neighbors and lets you make of yourself something possibly better than they. And it was this latter kind which made Hawthorne troublesome to the practical community around him. Nothing in his books betrays the prolonged exasperation which he felt at the relations between himself and his townsfolk, but there are glimpses of it in some of his letters which make one marvel at his self restraint in not letting more of it appear in print. At last, when a little gentle satire escaped him in "The Custom House," it awoke hot scandal in the little city. "As to the Salem people," he wrote to a friend in 1850, "I really thought I had been exceedingly good natured in my treatment of them." And so it appeared to most of his readers. But the general public would have been as startled as would the Salem citizens if they could have known how deep was his disgust at the lack of sympathy there had always been between himself and his fellow townsmen. Yet patiently absorbing his bitter experience, he wrote late in life: "I am disposed to thank God for the gloom and chill of my early life, in the hope that my share of adversity came then, when I bore it alone." This want of sympathy had a practical side also, as when various Salem people combined to get Hawthorne ousted from the surveyorship, and made representations for that end which he thought untrue. But in practical affairs his experiences were often rasping. Most of his earlier tales were written for little or no compensation. In 1836 he went to Boston to edit a magazine, and seems to have been cheated out of the most of his salary. It was at about this time that he was engaged by Mr S G Goodrich to write either the whole or a large part of the famous "Universal History" of Peter Parley, which brought him a hundred dollars and sold by millions of copies for the benefit of his employer. Later, when married and living at the Old Manse, he advanced money to the "Democratic Review," and delayed collecting the price of sundry contributions until the concern failed, and carried off both the loan and the value of his articles, irrecoverably. It is usually thought that the Liverpool consulate made a delightful and vastly lucrative episode in his life. A shameful misinterpretation of his acceptance of it, however, was inflicted on him; the emoluments of the office were shortly cut down by Congress; large drains were made on his private purse by unfortunate fellow countrymen, and his diligence in office was sometimes questioned,—with the greatest injustice, however, for he was a most conscientious public servant, and went beyond the necessities of his position, to make sure. At no time, unless in Italy, was he wholly free from the embarrassments of a small income. In addition to these more sordid annoyances, there were many grievances that cannot be touched upon here. In short, he lived the checkered life of most men who had their own way to make in the world, and had to suffer misconstruction which more politic men might have avoided, and less sensitive men would not have felt. But, with perfect supremacy, he saw that these things were not worthy to affect him in any visible way. He was rational, self possessed, and simply manful. Not the less, to a person of his disposition and genius, such things made a constant warfare.

It was a silent battle; all the more admirable the victory, then. He did not crudely call upon the world to be miserable because he suffered or was taken advantage of. But this silent battle speaks most powerfully throughout his works; this drama of interior development has issued in the visible action of creatures who take their places among the most dramatically conceived in fictitious writing.

A Winning Widow.—She is a blonde whose ringlets have been kissed into gold by the suns of some thirty summers. To a form like Hebe's she adds all the winsome ways of a Juno when cajoling the nodding Thunderer on Mount Ida. She went to Milwaukee a fortnight since and stopped at the Plankinton House. She was a Washington widow, and was therefore lonesome. She wailed out her longings for congenial companionship in a Milwaukee paper, and sympathetic souls responded, knocked at her door, and were admitted. She gently bemoaned her solitary lot and suggested cards as a pleasant recreation. Euchre? No, she was positively tired of that stupid game. Did the visitor ever play poker? Of course he did, under the circumstances, whether he could tell a "flush" from a flouring mill. The delighted widow produced chips and the game began. Visitor was at first pleased to see her deftly "rake in the pot," and flattered himself that each individual chip abstracted from his "stack" was Cupid's messenger to the heart of his fair antagonist. As stack followed stack across the festive board, each transportation was marked by such a captivating smile or witty retort that he congratulated himself on having held the weaker "hands." He would bide his time, catch a "full" when she was "bluffing," and "play for even." He intended to come out $10 or $20 behind, and would play her about to the size of his "roll" before he attempted to recover. He got his full at last, and cunningly induced her to "call" him for his last dollar. She "showed down" a "gazander"—four deuces and an ace—and gathered the wealth. This last act had a soporific effect, and visitor was gracefully dismissed to the consumptive breezes of midnight, with a cordial invitation to call again. If he didn't bite another did, and the widow's solitude was nightly enlivened with a sucker. At the expiration of ten days she complacently counted over her winnings—about $1,500, $1,000 of which came from one individual—carefully packed her marked cards and chips, paid her hotel bill and came to Chicago, where she is now stopping at a leading hotel, and already has several ardent victims on the string, one of whom dropped $50 with her yesterday. There are more.—Chicago Times

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1876.

OUR IMPERIAL GUEST.

[illegible] of Brazil, [illegible] New York [illegible] is the head [illegible] great nation [illegible]

Dom Pedro was born [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] was the [illegible] Emperor of Brazil, and was the son of King John VI and Queen Dona Maria [illegible] of Portugal. The royal family fled to Brazil when the French [illegible] Portugal in 180[illegible] and when [illegible] the [illegible] became Emperor after the [illegible] of 18[illegible] He [illegible] present [illegible] who was then only five years [illegible] Portugal drove out his usurping [illegible] Dom Miguel [illegible] his [illegible] Pedro II was [illegible] of the Brazilian [illegible] and was crowned July 18, 1841. Under his wise firm rule the nation has made great advancing [illegible] path of civilization and [illegible] national [illegible] population has increased [illegible] have been established, railways built, vast tracts of country explored and settled and lines of steam communication established upon the great interior rivers as well as between the seaports and the United States and Europe. In a word a [illegible] sparsely peopled by mixed and lawless races has been converted into a compact and powerful nation. This result is due in great part, to the firm and wise rule of the Emperor. Among all the reigning sovereigns of the world he is beyond doubt the most learned, cultured and liberal minded.

Dom Pedro was married when 17 years of age to Theresa Christina Maria, daughter of Francis I, King of the two Sicilies. They have two children, the Princesses Isabella and Leopoldina. The former acts as regent during the absence of her father. The Empress will remain in New York or at one of the watering places in the vicinity while Dom Pedro makes a tour of the country. Mr Netto vice president of the Brazilian Centennial commission says that we will be surprised to find that the Emperor knows as much about the United States as most Americans do. He knows exactly where he wants to go and what and whom he wants to see. He will wish to meet our eminent authors, statesmen and men of science, and will examine our institutions of learning and charity, our great manufactories, our railroad, postal and telegraph system, our army and navy, and our forms of national, State and local administration. He is a close observer, and always seeks to utilize the information he gains as far as possible in improving the condition of his own country.

Dom Pedro desires to travel as a private citizen, and would prefer to lay aside altogether his official rank. Still, as he expects to be present at the opening of the Exhibition and at the ceremonies on the Fourth of July, he will undoubtedly be obliged to accept some of the honors that will be tendered him. He cannot well go about the country as plain Mr. Alcantara, when everybody will know that he is the sovereign of the only great nation besides our own on the American continent and will want to give him a hearty welcome. From this country the Emperor will go to Europe, where he will remain for over a year.

The New York Sun reiterates the charge made against ex-Speaker Blaine in an Indianapolis paper and asserts that that is true, and that it has been hushed up so as not to interfere with his chances as candidate for the nomination for the Presidency. This charge however has been explicitly denied by Mr Blaine, and his denial is most convincingly backed up by letters from the parties who are alleged to have drawn the draft referred to in the charge, and from the officers of the bank at which it was said to have been payable. As at certain seasons of the year squalls may be looked for, so on the eve of a Presidential campaign it is not surprising that all sorts of slanders should be put in circulation by the wire pullers to injure or defeat prominent candidates. As for this charge it seems to be sufficiently disproved and nothing more will probably be heard of it.

The nature of the country through which the Mississippi river flows in the lower part of its course is such that at times the surface of the water of the river is considerable higher than the country through which it flows, and the stream is withheld from overflowing the country by means of good banks or levees, as they were called by the early French settlers. Now and then these banks give way, and what is known as crevasses (from crever) are formed, and sometimes a vast amount of damage is done by the overflowing waters to the plantations near the rivers. The dispatches speak of an overflow of an unusual extent, inundating a great breadth of country. [illegible] that [illegible] loss [illegible] heard [illegible]

The statue of President Lincoln will be [illegible] in Washington to-day. [illegible] of [illegible] passed a special act declaring this day a legal holiday [illegible] doubt [illegible] [illegible] on the [illegible] day after the death of Mr Lincoln [illegible]

[illegible] from Senator Sargent have [illegible] by the committee [illegible] that explanation [illegible]

Mr. Bristow's Vindication. Mr Bristow, like the honest, manly, straightforward statesman that he is, has gone before the House committee on war expenditures and explained his connection with the mule case, in which it is claimed that he took part in defrauding the government. His explanation is clear and conclusive and will be accepted by the country. We observe that the Secretary would have the committee inquire as to the author of the story. [illegible] to take any man's character for granted, but to insist upon having every [illegible] investigated. Mr. Bristow should therefore feel grateful [illegible] opportunity [illegible] story [illegible] which has [illegible] Washington has been in circulation for some days. In this season of [illegible] no [illegible] can hope [illegible] scrutiny. The story about Bristow was no [illegible] more improbable than the story about Pendleton. So far as [illegible] Mr Pendleton until the railway charges were made, stood as high as Mr. Bristow [illegible] the scrutiny came Pendleton [illegible] Bristow came out not only stainless, but with renewed lustre.

The Apache and [illegible] Indians are to be pitted against each other in Arizona. This will be a fight which the whites could witness with perfect indifference provided they could be assured that there would be no survivors.

At the horse race on the Umatilla reservation last week, Joseph's band matched their best racer against the best horse that [illegible] could [illegible] or would trot out and were beaten out of forty ponies.

AT

MISS JENNIE MACNAMARA'S,

71 First Street,

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY,

April 11, 12 and 13.

The Ladies may expect something unusually Attractive.

NO MORE BALDNESS!

MRS. S. FORD, AGENT FOR OREGON AND Washington for Mrs. Moore's Great Scientific HAIR PRODUCER, would announce to ladies and gentlemen who desire the personal adornment of a fine suit of hair that she has opened parlors for its express treatment. They are completely assured she possesses the skill to produce a full crop of hair on all stages of baldness. A few treatments will convince the most skeptical that this is no exaggeration. Weak, decaying and falling hair made [illegible] healthy and vigorous. No mineral or damaging substances used in these remarkable methods. On the contrary the treatment is pleasant and soothing, bringing the scalp rapidly into a natural healthful tone and furnishing the proper elements to the bulbs and hair, which is produced in a surprisingly short space of time. Hair guaranteed in all cases where the directions are faithfully followed. Ladies and gentlemen are invited to call at her parlors and examine photographs of prominent men taken before and after treatment, which might convince skeptics. Most satisfactory proof furnished. Parlors No. 10, third floor First National Bank Building, First st. above Washington, Portland. Preparations sent to all parts of Oregon and Washington. ap4d2w

CITY.

CONCERT SOCIETY.—A correspondent from Salem says: The concert given by this society was repeated in the Congregational Church on Tuesday, the with marked success. The choruses performed by a well trained choir, comprising the principal part of the musical talent of the city, among whom may justly be mentioned Mrs. F. Loynton, who has been the main support of the society, being the leading soprano, the whole under the management of Mr. J. L. Strong as president of the society, and Mr. I. G. Adair as leader. On this occasion the instrumental accompaniments to the choruses were well executed by Mrs. Miles Miller as organist, Mrs. Patterson pianist, Dr. F. Y. Chase with the flute, and J. H. Haas with violin. The piano, violin and flute performed by Mrs. Wm. England, Mr. Haas and Mr. Murphy, was heartily applauded. The accompaniments to the various solos and quartettes, were participated in by Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. England, Mrs. A. W. Jones and Miss Ada Jones. The song and chorus "On that Beautiful Shore," was well rendered by Misses Ella and Jose Nelson. The duet by Misses Ella and Frank McDowell. The terzetto, "The Bird Let Loose," by Oliver was sung by Misses Helen and Ada Jones, and elicited much applause. The beautiful duet, "Flow Gently Deva," was one of the last pieces on the programme, and was well sung by J. M. Adair and J. L. Strong. Several pieces on the programme were omitted on account of the hoarseness of Mr. Strong. The deficiency was made good by Rev. H. F. Peck, who kindly favored the audience with reading of humorous extracts from Bret Harte, and a short original poem entitled "My Home in the East."

GOOD FRIDAY.—This day will be observed throughout the world in commemoration of the sufferings of Jesus Christ for the salvation of men. The observance of this season seems to be growing in many places where it was formerly neglected. The Boston Transcript reports a decided growth of ecclesiastical feeling among Boston Christians, and says that there is scarcely a church of any denomination that does not recognize Christmas and Easter by peculiar services, and to this that "the influence of the Lenten season is now strongly and edifyingly felt by those religiously inclined in all communions. A recent editorial on the subject has some insight that are thoughtful as well as devout; it speaks of the probable coming of the day when the shadow of the forty days and their culmination in Holy Week may pervade the leading portion of the community and be indeed "as the shadow of a great rock in the land"—a benign and restful period for retreat within one's self, for forgetting worldly cares, and withholding awhile from the gratification of light pleasures and selfish desires. The article closes with suggesting that an interpretation of Lent will render it possible for Lent to "become a general observance and a local institution in Boston as clearly distinguished and as universally heeded as the Christmas holidays."

A RUNAWAY COLLISION.—A team attached to the milk wagon of Messrs. Huber & Zimmerman, took fright yesterday and ran away down First street. At the intersection of First and Washington streets the team collided with the wagon belonging to Henry Fleckenstein, and used in delivering liquors. The latter vehicle was upset, and the contents thrown out into the streets. A number of bottles of liquor, principally beer, were smashed by the collision and the contents lost. The milk wagon did not escape without more or less damage, and the streets enjoyed a good drink of the lacteal fluid. Fortunately no one was injured and the animals also escaped unhurt. The vehicles will require the services of a son of Vulcan to make good some necessary repairs. The accident created no little excitement and drew together a large crowd.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB.—Wednesday evening a meeting was held at Union Hall by a number of Democrats for the purpose of organizing a Democratic club for the city precincts. [illegible] was chosen chairman of the meeting, and Wm. J. Kelly secretary. A committee consisting of Messrs. M. J. Glasson, A. B. [illegible], R. L. Norden, Chas. E. S. Wood, Twenty-first Infantry, will assemble at Fort Vancouver, W. T., Wednesday, the 12th inst. at 10 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as practicable, to examine and report upon the qualifications of Chas. Lee, formerly First Sergeant of Company H, Ninth infantry, for appointment as superintendent of a national cemetery.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Yesterday a little son of Rev. Mr. Bentley, pastor of the Taylor Street M. E. church, met with a very painful, and it is feared, serious accident. The little fellow was standing upon a box, and losing his balance fell over another box which was near him. In falling, he struck his face violently against a sharp nail that protruded. The end of the nail struck near the eye and was driven through the nose, inflicting an ugly wound. A physician was summoned, but the character and extent of the injuries are not yet fully known.

SHAFT BROKEN.—While coming down the river Wednesday the steamer Willamette Chief broke her shaft at Weston, and was compelled to tie up. The steamer Beaver was dispatched at once to her assistance to bring down the freight. To-morrow the Chief will be towed down by the Occident to this city for repairs. It will be necessary to put in a new shaft before the disabled steamer can be rendered serviceable again.

U. S. COMMISSIONER'S COURT.—Charles M. Dewitt, mate of the steamer Geo. W. Elder, was examined yesterday before Commissioner W[illegible] on a charge of beating a sailor. Dewitt was discharged after an examination, the testimony being deemed insufficient to hold him. The examination of Capt. Kelly of the [illegible] was concluded before the commissioner and taken under advisement until this morning.

INCENDIARISM—SUPPOSED MURDER.

A BARN AND DWELLING HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE—THE WORK OF INCENDIARIES—A FRENCHMAN MISSING AND SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN FOULLY DEALT WITH.

Wm. Tuber, formerly a resident of this city, but who now lives about one mile and a half beyond Taylor's ferry, came in here yesterday bringing intelligence of the total destruction by fire of his barn, and of a cabin belonging to a Frenchman named Joseph Bellanger, and unaccountable disappearance and probable murder of that person. From Mr. Tuber we obtained the following particulars of the affair:

As previously stated, Mr. Tuber owns a farm near what is known as [illegible] in Washington county. [illegible] Mrs. Tuber's wife was awakened by the [illegible] barking of the house dog. She aroused her husband [illegible] there must be something about the place. Tuber arose [illegible] to find his barn in flames. The barn was situated only a short distance from his house. They both hastily dressed and ran out, but could do nothing as the entire building was in flames. While looking at the burning barn Mrs. Tuber told her husband that the cabin in which stood about a hundred yards distant [illegible] on fire [illegible] that could not be possible, that it was only the light reflected from the barn. However, on looking again it was discovered that the cabin was in flames in reality. Tuber proposed to leave his own property and go to the Frenchman's house, but his wife said that incendiaries were undoubtedly in the vicinity, and that it might be dangerous to go near the cabin. Tuber concluded that was good advice and staid away. Meantime the neighbors were aroused and came to the scene but nothing could be done to save the property. Early yesterday morning the spot was examined where Bellanger's cabin had stood. It was wholly destroyed and not a single trace of the Frenchman could be found. The smouldering ashes were examined in the hope that if he had been foully dealt with or had perished in the flames at least his bones could be discovered. But nothing rewarded the search. Some of the neighbors state that they heard the report of a gun in the direction of Bellanger's cabin a short time previous to the cabin being seen in flames. A strong impression prevails in that neighborhood that the Frenchman has been murdered and the body secreted in some way. Bellanger is a native of Belgium, aged about 28 years. He owned a small piece of land and the cabin. Although not very intelligent he was a steady industrious fellow and well liked. Some time ago Bellanger had a sum of money on deposit in one of the banks of this city. He is known to have drawn that amount several months since. It is thought that he had quite a sum of money at the time of the supposed murder, which probably tempted the cupidity of some persons who were aware of the fact. Another theory is advanced in explanation of the mysterious proceedings, that Bellanger became deranged from some cause and actuated by an insane motive set fire to Mr. Tuber's barn, his own cabin, and then ran off and hid himself in the woods. Search was made in every direction and a swamp which is located near the ruins of the cabin was dragged, under the supposition that he might have been murdered and the body sunk in the water and mud, but up to 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon no traces of the missing were found. There can be no doubt but that the fires were the result of an incendiarism, whatever explanation subsequent developments may make of the affair.

Mr. Tuber loses quite heavily by the destruction of his barn. The building which was a large one, and its contents consisting of grain, hay, straw, farming implements, two wagons and about twenty head of hogs were consumed. The affair is being investigated and additional particulars will be learned in a few days.

BRIEF NOTES.

Good Friday.

Easter day after to-morrow.

Yesterday was Holy Thursday.

Work is going rapidly forward on Flanders wharf.

Services will be held at St. Stephens chapel to-day (Good Friday) at 11 A. M.

The steamer John L. Stephens will sail for San Francisco this morning at 5 o'clock, and the Dakota[illegible] for the Sound at 6 o'clock this evening.

Turkeys quail on toast, and all such "way up" delicacies are not a circumstance to a fine piece of beef such as we observed at Keller's yesterday. It came from the Dalles.

Carpenters are busily engaged now in repairing the damages done the Columbia hotel, corner of A and Second streets, and the wooden building near Front and Ash streets by the recent fires. Both buildings will soon be rendered fit for occupancy.

DUST TO DUST AGAIN.—The Moline (Ill.) Review for March 31st brings notice of the death and burial of George L. Atkinson, nephew of Dr. G. H. Atkinson and J. I. Atkinson of this city. Other hearts than his family connection are saddened away here in far Oregon and Washington Territory, and in behalf of these far away friends this brief note is penned by one of his school fellows and familiar friends. Though we shall not come face to face with him again, still we may refresh ourselves with the memory of his manly life. He had graduated from Oberlin College in 1871 and was but in his 27th year when taken away, and yet he had rapidly advanced in favor and in influence both in business circles, in society, in his church and Sabbath school. Those of us who knew him can bear testimony to his thoroughness and diligence, to his fidelity and integrity, to his strength and independence of mind and to his genial wholesome Christian character. His kindred and friends have the tenderest, quickest sympathy of the bereaved ones in the farthest West.

NOTES FROM SALEM.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

Our regular correspondent under date of April 13th sends the following:

Mr. George A. Edes has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to appear on the streets.

E. D. Crandall, a well known typo of this city, returned from San Francisco on the last steamer.

The contemplated change in the Salem postoffice will probably not take place for three or four weeks yet.

Miss D. Rickey of this city is rusticating in the vicinity of Jefferson and contemplates living farming this summer.

H. D. Mount and Wm. Simpson have been elected representatives to the Grand Lodge by Silverton Lodge No. [illegible], I. O. O. F.

Hon. W. F. Dunbar will start for Southern Oregon to-morrow to canvass the State in behalf of the temperance cause. He will probably be absent about two months.

Mrs. V. R. Hyde, wife of our city recorder, left for Washington Territory yesterday to be present at the marriage of her sister Miss Ella Cooper.

Prof. J. M. Gatch of this city has been elected president of the State University at Eugene, but he has not as yet signified his acceptance of the position.

Irvin Smith, who spent last summer in this State and returned East in the fall, has just returned here and brought his family, with the intention of remaining with us.

Our county primaries, both Republican and Democratic, will be held in the various precincts Saturday next, and the customary amount of button holing is visible on every hand.

Among the Salemites who contemplate visiting the Centennial at Philadelphia during the coming summer are Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Minto, Sr., Benj. Forstner and lady, and others whose minds are not fully made up yet.

The College Base Ball Club have decided on the following suit for the Centennial season: It will consist of white twilled flannel knee breeches, white shirt with blue collar and shield with letter "C" in the center, white and blue hat and blue stockings. It promises to be a "natty rig," and the boys intend doing it honor and making it hard to beat.

At a special meeting of Tiger Engine Co. No. 2 held last evening it was decided to accept the invitation extended them by your city to join the Centennial festivities, and a committee consisting of Chief Engineer Eph. Olinger, First Assistant Jno. Baker and Foreman Jno. Knight appointed to confer with other companies and make arrangements for the trip.

Work on the capitol building is progressing nicely, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. A large force of carpenters are laying the floors, having completed that portion of the work in the second story. The plasterers are busy and the plumbers under the management of M. J. Rhawl await their turn, and everything goes to show the building will be ready for occupancy by the time set for the legislature to convene.

The State teachers institute will convene at Albany to-day, and Salem has sent a large delegation. Among them we notice Supt. Superintendent Rowland, Secretary Chadwick, Professors Crawford, Gregg, Randle, Messrs. Watt, Raymond and Maria Smith. A number of our leading elocutionists, including Misses Bertha Moores, Ada May, Georgie Carpenter and Messrs. Bewley and Belt will go up to-morrow to assist in a grand entertainment to be given there to-morrow evening.

The retail merchants are agitating the silver discount question, and talk of coming to some mutual agreement for protection. Parties in this city are buying silver at eight per cent discount in San Francisco, and paying it out to employes and farmers at par value. These parties then make their purchases of retail dealers, settling their bills with silver when the merchant in turn is compelled to buy gold to settle his bills in Frisco, thereby sustaining no little pecuniary loss. Unless a change takes place shortly, Salem merchants will take action in the matter, when the consumer will be compelled to stand the loss by disposing of his silver at a discount.

Music, Comic Opera and Skating every evening at the Museum.

Mr. M. Rosenblatt, the well known clothier, at 79 Front street, has opened a well selected stock of clothing, which includes new styles for youths, all very attractive. Call on him.

Dr. Wightman is now at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, Room No. 7. Ladies' entrance. I shall leave in a few days for San Francisco and not likely return for some time. Persons wishing the Wightman Process sent C. O. D. by express must send consultation fee $2 and full description of trouble, age, sex, &c. EUGENE CITY ITEMS

Under date of April 13th our correspondent at Eugene sends the following:

Postal Agent J. P. Underwood arrived home from Washington yesterday.

A call has been issued for a temperance convention to nominate county officers.

From the report of the city recorder the expenses of the past year were $2,400. The city is in debt $820.

Mr. F. W. Garretson, of the Albany Herald, has been here attending the county council of the grangers this week.

Wm. Hill, on the Moore farm four miles below town, has about 1,100 acres plowed. He has facilities for sowing 100 acres per day.

The Democratic primaries for this county were held last Saturday. No particular interest was taken in the complexion of delegates other than the district judge. Lumbert will probably carry the delegation from this county.

[illegible] expected in this section. Considerable plowing yet remains to be done, and hardly any grain has been placed in the ground. The farmers however are prepared to rush things when settled weather comes.

The city council met last Monday evening and the newly elected officers were sworn in. Propositions were received for acting as night watchman the ensuing year, but their consideration was postponed till Tuesday, when they had a special meeting which adjourned without action.

[illegible] banks of California have [illegible] statement of their condition on the [illegible]. These are the only gold banks in California and present the best basis for a resumption of specie payments of any system yet devised. Were the Government to treat them the same as the currency banks by allowing them a note circulation of 90 per cent. of the par value of the bonds [illegible] the gold note system might be greatly extended in California and would soon be adopted in other Pacific States and Territories and eventually through the Atlantic States. The notes of these banks are as good as the coin they represent and a great deal more convenient. There have been no new banks of this character organized during the past six months nor is there likely to be very soon unless the changes suggested be made.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

The following is our special cablegram of wheat quotations direct from Liverpool:

LIVERPOOL, April 13, 1876.

Ours [illegible] Portland. To-day's Liverpool wheat market closed with Oregon wheat, ex warehouse, quotable at 10s 6d per cental. The market is steady.

HENRY [illegible] & SONS.

The foregoing corresponds with the regular press dispatches and shows a decline of 1d per cental since the last week's report. Proportionately the quotations for Oregon cargoes afloat would be [illegible] 10s 4d.

Eastern Commercial News.

Latest mail advices of a commercial character indicate but few changes in values in lines of goods in which Pacific coast people are much interested. The general tone of the market differs little from that prevalent for several weeks past and the movement is hardly up to the expectations of dealers. Prices, however, remain steady and with no essential change to note.

The general opinion of financial men of good judgment, is, that after the deposits of the spring trade are made the banks will still further reduce, not only rates of discount but rates of interest on deposits.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce says:

Silver is becoming the great white elephant of monetary circles something to be coveted devoutly loved and yet wisely feared. For eighty years the silver dollar was our standard of values but three years ago our law makers rejected it and in its place set up the gold dollar. Our silver mines are now becoming so productive that it seems to be but a question of time for silver to become an object of as great abuse as our irredeemable greenback." The time was when twelve ounces of silver were requisite to constitute a pound sterling in value [a pound weight for a pound in value]. In 1866 an ounce of silver was worth, in England, 62 pence, requiring but about 3 87 oz. for the pound now the British Trade Journal quotes it at 53½ pence per oz equal to 4,488 ozs to the pound. If a few more commercial nations demonetize silver the time may come again when an ounce of silver shall be worth but a twelfth of a pound sterling.

It is also suggested that it would be wise on the part of our importers of tea and coffee to patronize those nations who prefer silver to gold as a standard of values, for we shall soon need a market for that metal as well as for our cereals and manufactures.

The financial question is yet before Congress. A bill for a gradual return to specie payments was on Monday rejected in the lower House by a vote of 166 to 81. Few capitalists will be willing to invest largely in any extensive and useful enterprise until the future of our currency is definitely determined.

Domestic Produce.

There are no new developments in this department of trade to-day. The feeling in regard to breadstuffs is rather firmer but prices are unchanged and transactions almost entirely off for the time being. The slightest indications of national troubles in Europe always gives the market an upward tendency and the little speck of difficulty faintly shadowed in the dispatches may have given rise to the rumors of anticipated or occurring advances in the English grain markets, but it appears to us at this distance that the probabilities of a rupture [illegible] or rather that there are really no such probabilities. The last vessel at hand under engagement to load wheat in our port except the Thorndike has now cleared, and she has her cargo partially on board and the balance alongside. The Caller Ou, we learn, is not definitely fixed though negotiations for a charter are pending.

The market is active for oats and mill feed and shipments of the former to San Francisco are brisk. Provisions are in good demand and receipts quite liberal for the season. Dairy products sell readily at quotations if of fair to choice quality. Eggs have declined to 20c with a prospect of going lower at furthest as early as the beginning of next week. Dried fruits now form an important article of export and the aggregate of shipments is materially larger this season owing to the improved methods in vogue in their preparation. Ripe apples are nearly out of season and shipments are falling off quite rapidly the outgoing steamer carrying only about one tenth as many boxes as were shipped by each steamer from two months to three weeks ago.

PHYSICIANS of all schools who are acquainted with Pond's Extract of Witch Hazel recommend it in their practice. In addition to the foregoing, they order its use for Swellings of all kinds, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Inflamed Tonsils, simple and chronic Diarrhœa, Catarrh (for which it is a specific), Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Stings of Insects, Musquitoes, etc. Chapped Hands, Face, and indeed all manner of skin diseases.

TOILET USE. Removes Soreness, Roughness and Smarting; heals Cuts, Eruptions and Pimples. It revives, invigorates and refreshes while wonderfully improving the Complexion.

TO FARMERS—Pond's Extract. No Stock Breeder, no Livery Man can afford to be without it. It is used by all the leading Livery Stables, Street Railroads and first Horsemen in New York City. It has no equal for Sprains, Harness or Saddle Chafings, [illegible] Scratches, Swellings, Cuts, Lacerations, Bleedings, Pneumonia, Colic, Diarrhœa, Chills, Colds, &c. Its range of action is wide, and the relief it affords is so prompt that it is invaluable in every Farm-yard as well as in every Farm-house. Let it be tried once, and you will never be without it.

CAUTION! Pond's Extract has been imitated. The genuine article has the words Pond's Extract blown in each bottle. It is prepared by the only persons living who ever knew how to prepare it properly. Refuse all other preparations of Witch Hazel. This is the only article used by Physicians, and in the hospitals of this country and Europe.
